SUMMARY

Literature and Culture in the German Language 3 is part of the Major in German Language and Literature of the Degree in Modern Languages and their Literatures. In this course we will study the main literary movements, authors and works of German language literature between the end of the 19th century and the 80s of the 20th century, paying special attention to the historical, social and cultural context. Literature and Culture in the German Language 3 is the continuation of the subjects: Literature and Culture in the German Language 1 and Literature and Culture in the German Language 2.

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

In the theoretical classes we will use a hybrid model combining the expository and the communicative didactic model. The expository model uses explanatory methods that focus on showing the interdependence between concepts and facts, and include the repeated use of different skills. The focus is on conceptual content and basic skills are emphasised. Verbal interaction between teacher and student is fundamental. In the communicative didactic model, the teacher guides and energises learning through methods of dialogue, discussion and problem solving in a climate of peer interaction. The student learns empirically in relation and interdependence with the teacher and the rest of the classmates, sharing perceptions and ideas about reality and collectively reconstructing knowledge. Learning is focused on discovery, understanding the logic of the subject matter and the social, cultural and ethical issues arising from it.

In the practical classes, this methodology will be complemented with the transactive didactic model, that is to say, use will be made of the didactic resources and technological means available (Virtual Classroom, Internet...) for self-learning. This model focuses on the students' interests, guiding their academic and personal growth. The student explores and discovers the subject guided by their own interest through interaction with the material and human environment, working individually or in small groups tutored by the teacher and often in a self-instructive way. In this way, learning to learn skills are promoted and interdisciplinarity is fostered.

Our intention, among others, is to foster literary appreciation and the capacity for reasoned argumentation. To this end, we will try to transmit the specific mechanisms of literary discourse in its variety and complexity, to be able to appreciate the relationship between text and meaning, its belonging to generic coordinates, as well as its location in a specific historical, social and cultural dimension. Theoretical and practical classes as well as assignments and other exercises to be carried out by the student will serve this purpose.

Other activities such as attendance at seminars, readings, performances, conferences or courses, dedicated to different artistic fields, will complement aspects of the syllabus.

EVALUATION

The evaluation will consist of 4 distinct parts:

Type of assessment % of final

- a) An individual written examination 55%
- b) An oral presentation in a group 15%
- c) A final creative work in a group 20%
- d) Participation in class and other activities 10%

Evaluation criteria

The minimum mark to pass the exam is 5. In case of failing this part of the evaluation, it can be made up in the second call. It is not possible to make up the other parts of the exam at the second call.

Failure to complete one of the parts of the assessment automatically means losing the percentage of the mark assigned in the table.
