OUTCOMES

1301 - Degree in Audiovisual Communication

- Knowledge of the different languages, codes and representation methods of the different technological and audiovisual media: photography, cinema, radio, television, video and electronic image, the Internet, etc. through their aesthetic and industrial proposals and their evolution over the years, which should generate a capacity to analyse audiovisual narratives and works, taking into account iconic messages such as the texts and products of the socio-political and cultural conditions of a given historic era.
- Knowledge and applications of the different stages of audiovisual production and broadcasting techniques and the processes from the conception of a project until it is put into practice. This knowledge will bring about the development of the ability and skills to plan and manage human resources, budgets and technical means, including all the processes involved in audiovisual direction and management in the different fields:
 - cinematographic & videographic production,
 - single- and multiple-camera TV productions
 - radiophonic, discographic and other sound production,
 - photographic production, as well as other creative processes in the field of still images in general, paying special attention to its development in digital environments,
 - production of multimedia narratives and contents and interactive materials
- Knowledge and applications of the different stages of audiovisual production and broadcasting techniques and processes, both in the cinema and in television, video and multimedia from the viewpoint of the mise-en-scène from the initial idea to the finished product. This will lead to the ability to create and direct the whole mise-en-scène of audiovisual cinematographic, videographic or televisual productions, directing actors and following the script, work plan or storyboard.
- Knowledge and applications of the different mechanisms and elements of scriptwriting in different formats, technologies and production supports. It also includes theoretical and practical knowledge of the analyses, sistematisation and codification of iconic contents and audiovisual information in different supports and technologies. The ability to create texts, script outlines or scripts fluidly in the fields of cinematographic, televisual, videographic, radiophonic or multimedia fiction.
- The ability to arrange technically the audio and visual materials to reflect an idea by using the narrative techniques and technologies necessary to create, compose, complete and master mix different audiovisual and multimedia products and to design and conceive the aesthetic and technical presentation of the mise-en-scène by means of natural or artificial sources of light and sound, taking into account the creative and expressive features proposed by the director of the audiovisual project.

- The ability to apply creation techniques and processes and technical or human resources necessary for the integral production design of an audiovisual work from scenographic elements and the brand image to the graphic marketing product.
- Creativity: the ability to take expressive and thematic risks involving availability and audiovisual timeframes, by applying personal solutions and viewpoints in the development of the projects.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- Know the structure of different types of script: technical, literary and function.
- Become familiar with the terminology used in the audio-visual narrative and how to apply correctly.
- Knowledge of different genres and formats used in film production, the different stages of production, industry characteristics and the different ways of exploitation of film products.
- Ability to translate emotions, feelings, passions images.
- The importance of teamwork, meeting deadlines, copyrights, etc..

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

Theoretical sessions: the master class will be used to explain the theoretical content of the course. The exhibition will present an interactive way, with the formulation of questions or simulated cases on a subject so as to encourage active student participation and facilitate the assimilation of concepts. The students in turn will prepare some of the items included in the program and expose them to the class.

Practical sessions: In each of the issues will be raised several practical activities that will facilitate understanding and assimilation of the contents hereof. Students will work collectively to the various issues raised during the theoretical sessions to be able to deliver a final draft following the methods of producing professional production work. NOT given any practice will be assessed later.

Tutorials

During these sessions, students may ask, either in person or is mediated through the virtual platform, all questions, doubts and clarifications that need resolving.

EVALUATION

Throughout the theory-based lectures and practice-based sessions, the students will learn about the film production processes and the elaboration of the different working documents in the media production sector. Class participation, responsibility and students' creative ability will be taken into account. The final mark for the course is comprised of 50% from the theory lectures (exam + participation and attendance) and 50% of the practice-based part (group work: final project + practicals) as indicated below:

Teamwork :(final draft + practices: 50%

Exam: 40%

Participation and attendance : 10%
