SUMMARY

This subject is included as part of the matter " Early Modern History of Spain " (12 credits), which is part of " History of Spain " (48 credits), included in the third year of the degree in History. Its contents are articulated and complement thematically by those of the matter " Modern History of Spain II ", given in the second four-month period. The goal is to offer to the students a general knowledge of the political evolution of the Hispanic Monarchy from the union of Crowns until the end of the Ancien Regim. The above mentioned evolution is approached, on one hand, from the interior point of view, that is to say, the organization of the Monarchy, the relations between her diverse components and territories and the juridical and institutional plurality of each one of them, as well as the fundamental hits of her political evolution. On the other hand, studies the foreign Hispanic projection and the relations with other powers of the Early Modern Age.
