SUMMARYEnglish version is not available

La asignatura “Historia Contemporánea Universal” es una materia anual de primer curso del Grado de Ciencias Políticas y de la Administración. Sus contenidos se estructuran en torno a conocimientos generales de los grandes procesos históricos mundiales de la época contemporánea. En este sentido guarda relación con otras materias más específicas también de primer curso (como la Historia Contemporánea de España y de las Instituciones jurídico-políticas) o de segundo curso (como Historia del pensamiento político). Del mismo modo se complementa con la materia Instituciones y políticas de la UE de tercer curso.

En general, está pensada para ofrecer una serie de conocimientos básicos con los que afrontar materias más específicas en otros cursos.

El objetivo general de la asignatura “Història Contemporànea Universal” es adquirir unos conocimientos generales sobre la formación de la sociedad y la política contemporáneas a partir del estudio de los acontecimientos y procesos históricos más importantes que se produjeron a lo largo de los siglos XIX y XX. Aunque la materia abarca un espacio de referencia mundial, inevitablemente la mayor parte de los procesos que definen la sociedad contemporánea actual están referidos a la influencia del devenir histórico en lo que llamamos "Occidente". Por tanto, Europa y Norte América estarán consideradas de forma especial en estos procesos.

Con esta asignatura los estudiantes adquirirán conocimientos básicos del funcionamiento de las sociedades contemporáneas en base a los procesos históricos que las han formado. Del mismo modo, se desarrollarán habilidades prácticas para el análisis de estos procesos a través de fuentes primarias de uso común en la investigación histórica, como textos, mapas, imágenes, filmes, etc.
