SUMMARY

The subject of Constitutional Law is a matter of basic training that is taught in its second year of the Degree in Political Science and Public Administration.

Its objective is to train students in our constitutional system. For this, in a first part of the program will be an introduction to the Theory of the Constitution (the foundations and principles basics of our Supreme Standard, paying special attention to the principle of equality), and those aspects basics regarding the organic part of the Constitution from an indispensable legal perspective for the full comprehension of the system of rights and freedoms designed therein. This basic legal approach to the institutional framework of the State is complementary to that in greater detail and a political perspective they will be offered in the next course of the Degree.

Contents of the first part: Introduction to the origin of constitutionalism and its evolution. Concept of Constitution and the analysis of its main contents. Constituent power and guarantees that the system establishes to safeguard the primacy of the Constitution itself. Basic institutional design gathered in the Constitution, with special attention to the Constitutional Court.

The knowledge acquired in that first part of the program is necessary to address the second, where the student will be trained in the rights and freedoms recognized in the Constitution (part dogmatic) and in the system of guarantees established for its safeguard, both at the national level as in the supranational.

Contents of the second part: The fundamental rights in the Spanish Constitution, with special attention to the principle of equality as a subjective right and as an inspiring principle of public policies. A detailed analysis of each of the fundamental rights will be carried out and freedoms of individuals, highlighting the elements common to all of them and the mechanisms that they exist to guarantee their effectiveness vis-à-vis the public authorities and in the face of individuals (guarantees jurisdictional and non-jurisdictional).

This subject is a basis for further discussion and in depth in other subjects the different public policies, among them those of equality, and the organs and Institutions of the State (Spanish Political System, which will be taught in the third year of the Degree).

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

The student must acquire the skills and abilities indicated in points 4 and 5 above the subjects that appear in the contents of the program (point 6). You must also acquire the capacity to analyze them, interpret them and apply them to various theoretical-practical assumptions.

To achieve this objective, in the Plan for which the Degree in Political Science was approved, Constitutional Law attributes 9 ECTS credits, which involve 225 hours. of student's dedication to it length of the academic year.

The activities to be developed by the student will be basically of three types:

- Face-to-face activities (in the classroom or indicated place) 90 hrs.
- Guided activities (outside the classroom) 45 hrs.

- Self-contained student work (outside the classroom) 90 hs.

The methodology to be used and its time dedication is established as follows:

PRESENTIAL ACTIVITIES:

The presential activities will take place two days a week throughout the first and second four-month period. Theoretical activities will be carried out (teacher's presentation of the contents of the course) program), practices / dynamics and complementary activities, some in the usual classroom and others outside of it.

From the schedule set for each subject in the teaching planning plan (POD) one must be subtracted Percentage of class time that is intended for complementary activities, presential ones too. In the event that these are not carried out, the entire temporary space set in the Schedule must be exhausted.

Thus, presential activities are of three types:

Attendance activities:

They will consist in the transmission of theoretical knowledge by a teacher in a dynamic way, with approaching the assumptions of current reality and anchoring in its historical reason. (45 hs, see schedule attached to the teacher's guide)

Applied activities:

They may consist of: problem solving, computer practices, project development, case studies and resolution, simulations, examination of press clippings, public exhibitions, collective jobs, etc. With sufficient anticipation, each teacher will give the students the instructions necessary on its realization. (30 hs. See attached academic guide)

Complementary activities:

These are activities of a different nature that will be carried out in the usual classroom during the time reserved for the subject or in another schedule and different day, essentially in the case of attendance to days, conferences, visits to institutions, etc.

The complementary activities also include the tests of dynamics and knowledge that are carried out (eg, partial test or examination, global final test), individual or group tutorials. (15 hours)

TOTAL presential activities 90 hrs

DIRECTED ACTIVITIES:

It refers to those non-classroom activities that the students will do outside of the classroom, as well as preparatory work to reach the classroom in conditions to be an active part in the development of the class so that they know beforehand the contents that are going to work with the rest of the classmates in the classroom, well to help consolidate knowledge and skills that have been previously worked in class (lesson reading, seminar attendance, preparation of material for the applied activities, search of data and information in Internet ...)

Elaboration individual works (5 hs)

Elaboration group work (5 hours)

Preliminary lesson weekly (30 min. Week x 30 weeks = 15 hours).

Preparation of applied / dynamic activities (30 min. Week x 30 weeks = 15 hours)

Study and preparation of evaluable tests and global examination (5 hours)

Total: 45 hours

STUDENT EMPLOYMENT WORK:

It refers to the work that the student performs individually, outside the classroom and without the direction of the teacher . Study of the contents and dynamics for the acquisition of skills, abilities and knowledge of the subject.

3 hs per week x 30 weeks = 90 hs.

TOTAL: 9 Cr ECTS x 25 hs = 225 hs.

Throughout the course, the teacher can use the virtual platform "Aula Virtual" (<http://aulavirtual.uv.es/>) to deposit the necessary materials so that the students can work in class or outside classroom and to communicate with students about issues related to the subject.

EVALUATION

It will be used the following procedure for assessing competencies:

- Written and/or oral test/sl, consisting of one or more exams that may be objective type tests, including theoretical-practical questions and/or problems. In case of final oral test, it must be recorded.
- Assessment of individual and/or group practical from the preparation, delivery of papers, memos/reports and/or oral presentations, and student attendance at seminars.
- Continuous evaluation of each student, based on regular attendance and active participation in classroom activities proposed, level of involvement in the process of teaching and learning and skills and attitudes displayed during the development of activities. The activities of continuous evaluation, by their nature, are not recoverable in second call.

For the accomplishment of the applied and complementary activities, the lecturer of the subject will be able to use the methodology of the Learning-Service

The overall grade will be distributed as follows:

CONTINUOUS EVALUATION
Evaluable activity	10%
Evaluable activity	10%

Evaluable activity	10%
Total continuous evaluation	30%
GLOBAL TEST (theoretical-practical examination). A partial qualifying examination with a value of 35% of the grade will be made in which case the final test will have a value of 35% for students who have passed the qualifying exam.	70%
TOTAL	100%

ADDENDUM COVID-19

This addendum will only be activated if the health situation requires so and with the prior agreement of the Governing Council

HYBRID TEACHING

If the academic authority determines it, this subject will be adapted to the hybrid teaching model established by the Faculty of Law, through which face-to-face theoretical-practical classes will be taught in discontinuous weeks for the student. To this end, the Secretary of the Faculty will divide the group into as many subgroups as necessary, teaching in the classroom, at the time established for the subject, to one of the subgroups each week in accordance with the calendar established by the Faculty, providing for the others, as a priority, follow-up of the class through synchronous VIDEO CONFERENCE.

The contents, volume of work and evaluation are maintained in the terms initially foreseen in the academic guide.

NON-PRESENTIAL TEACHING

If the academic authority establishes the change in non-classroom teaching, this subject will be taught to all students under the same conditions as those indicated for the non-classroom teaching part of the hybrid system.

The contents, volume of work and evaluation are maintained in the terms initially foreseen in the academic guide.
