TEACHING METHODOLOGY

Classroom teaching is allocated 90 hours, of which:

- 75 hours of normal classroom teaching, of which the recommended minimum number of applied activities is 30 hours.
- The other 15 hours will be devoted to complementary activities and the final exam.

Throughout the course, one or more training activities may be proposed to the group, whether a specific group activity or common with the Department of Criminal Law (e.g. attendance at conferences).

EVALUATION

The final grade of the subject Criminal Law I will be determined on the basis of the grades obtained in the continuous assessment carried out, worth 30% of the marks, and sitting the final exam on the dates set by the Faculty, which accounts for 70% of the marks.

It will be necessary to obtain a minimum pass mark (5) in the final exam in order to pass the subject, regardless of the mark obtained in the final exam.

The professor's addendum will detail the conditions for continuous assessment and the oral or written nature of the final exam, as well as whether or not a partial exam will be held, with discharging or without discharging effects, on the dates set for this purpose.

Students who do not take the continuous assessment may sit the final exam at the first sitting, and the mark obtained will be limited to the weighted value that this test has in the final mark (70%), so that, as a maximum, a 7 may be obtained as the final grade.

In the event of failing the first call, the grade obtained in the continuous assessment will be retained for the second call. If the professor's addendum foresees that there is any continuous assessment activity that can be recovered in the second call, the addendum will establish the procedure for making up those activities.
