RESUMEN

This subject will deal with the most relevant geographical, historical and cultural aspects, as well as the institutions in the English-speaking world, and their relationship with current affairs and contemporary society.

This subject should be useful as background knowledge for literature and linguistics subjects, such as “History of the English Language”, or aspects related to varieties of the English language, the cultural context in translation, etc.

“Philosophical thought in English-speaking countries” complements “History and Culture” as both subjects provide general training in the Humanities with a focus on the English-speaking countries.

This subject further contributes to the development of social values related to gender equality, democracy, and linguistic and cultural diversity.

CONOCIMIENTOS PREVIOS

Relación con otras asignaturas de la misma titulación

No se han especificado restricciones de matrícula con otras asignaturas del plan de estudios.

Otros tipos de requisitos

No previous knowledge is required but having an interest in history in general and in the way of life of the English-speaking countries and people, would be useful.

METODOLOGÍA DOCENTE

- Theory-based classes:

Lectures by the lecturer, plus presentations of previously researched material by the students.

- Practical classes:

Discussion of texts, maps, advertisements, speeches, videos or any other material useful to understand historical and cultural issues specific to the English-speaking world.

In addition to lectures and seminars, students may be asked to attend tutorials in small groups in order to revise some of their written activities and comments.

In both, theory and practice, students are expected to participate actively through discussion, group work, online forums or blog contributions. This participation will be an important component of their final mark.

Additionally, students may be asked to produce written material and to make presentations.

EVALUACIÓN

Assessment breakdown in the first and second calls:

- A) Final exam - 50%
- B) Continuous assessment – 50%
  - a. Academic essays and papers
  - b. Academic projects
  - c. Objective tests
  - d. Class attendance and active participation

Others

Those students who have been assessed during the term for their individual work and/or group work, including activities and projects, in-class participation, etc., will keep their grade in the second call.

These activities subject to continuous assessment (B) can only be done during the course and cannot be handed in for the second call.

To pass the subject students need to reach at least 50% of the grade assigned to the final exam.

The ability to communicate at the B2 (CEFR level) is required to pass the course as a whole. Students whose communication (written and/or oral) displays errors that are not consistent with the above level will fail the module regardless of their performance related to the course contents. Students will also have to prove that they have acquired a satisfactory level in the other specific competences.

Plagiarism will not be tolerated; it is a serious academic offence. Any student who is found to have committed plagiarism in his/her work for the course will face serious consequences which will lead to failing the whole subject.
