TEACHING METHODOLOGY

Theoretical-practical approach

A strict methodological separation between theory and practice will not be established. It will always be tried that the students put into practice the explanations of the functioning of the language that are provided to them through an approach that is as direct as possible to the reality of the French language. The teachers will pay attention to each of the competencies that come into play in the different tasks that the students will carry out. Within the itinerary of continuous formative assessment and to improve their self-learning abilities, students may request an orientation from the teacher before carrying out and submitting each task. This consultation will be carried out in the teacher's office, during his office hours.

Material and bibliography
You will work with the materials that will be included in the virtual classroom or that belong to the bibliography.
The subjects will be studied and practiced compulsorily from the material of the basic bibliography. Students will work both collectively and autonomously. To do this, they must have at their disposal the material indicated by the responsible teacher. This material will be in the same way necessary to study French Language 4.
The compulsory material is part of the basic references of all the subjects of French Language of the Degree.

Observations
The classes as well as the different works to be carried out will be carried out in French. Students will have to be very attentive to the information, resources, and activities disseminated through the Virtual Classroom of the University of Valencia.

EVALUATION

Assessment mode

The assessment, both written and oral, includes all communication skills (comprehension, expression, interaction) and grammatical correction of the French language (level B2.1). It is divided into 2 possible itineraries:

Itinerary A: with continuous assessment and final exam
Itinerary B: with final evaluation only.

The desire to follow Itinerary B must be clearly communicated at the beginning of the semester (before October 15) by means of an email addressed to the responsible teacher. It will not be possible to change the itinerary throughout the course except in justified cases of force majeure (medical certificate, employment contract).

The evaluation of the continuous work carried out throughout the course, within the framework of face-to-face and non-face-to-face training activities, will represent at least 25% of the overall mark for the subject.

The professor will communicate to the students the percentages of each part of the evaluation on the final grade as well as the compulsory tasks that enter the continuous evaluation. He will also indicate the parts of the continuous assessment not recoverable in the 2nd call.

In the virtual classroom of the subject, the contents of the continuous evaluation and the final evaluation will be established.

Assessment content

Each teacher will establish the evaluation tests according to the group and the grade.

Important remarks

In the continuous evaluation, the absence of a mandatory work will be evaluated with a 0.

To pass the whole subject, it is necessary to achieve at least 50% in all competences (oral and written expression and comprehension) of the continuous assessment and the final assessment.

The notes of the approved parts are saved for the 2nd call. It is impossible to redo an already approved part.

Students who do not attend class or have problems attending should contact the teacher as soon as possible.
