TEACHING METHODOLOGY

In the teaching methodology, the student's autonomy and their active participation in the classes and in the learning are looked for, reason why the techniques and the resources oriented to the practice, the investigation and the investigation are promoted, as well as to stimulate student motivation and interest in Italian Literature and its context. The methodology, therefore, is based on the constructivist approach to learning, that is, the construction of new knowledge through the reworking and modification of the student's prior knowledge. In this way, a significant learning is fostered that favors the critical reflection at the individual level, but also at the collective level through the critical comment of the works and the sharing of the elements of learning.

Different methodologies will be used to organize the knowledge and work of both the teacher and the students: master class, comment of the works by the students, exhibitions in the classroom, use of the virtual classroom as a repository of material used for the classes, and as a communication vehicle between the students and between the teacher and the students, as well as different technological resources appropriate in each case and with a specific purpose. It will be fundamental, likewise, the conversation organized on a topic, an author or a literary text is an oral technique in which the group can participate through the sharing of the individual contributions of each student. Basic and essential part will be the reading of obligatory texts and some complementary texts, so that the students get closer to the literary fact and, specifically, to the Italian literature of the studied centuries. The theoretical classes and the practical classes will be complemented and from the two types of teaching the student must acquire the compulsory knowledge established in the syllabus. The work in Virtual Classroom will be fundamental to complement and deepen learning. There will also be recourse to complementary cultural activities that may arise throughout the course. In addition, learning will be enhanced to perform scientific and academic quality work and will criminalize plagiarism that is totally prohibited and penalized in all jobs of whatever type and whose grade, if plagiarism is verified, will be equal to 0.

The students must be very clear that, in this subject, they can not limit themselves to take notes in class and maintain a passive, only receptive aptitude. This is not the objective pursued, nor is it in accordance with what is stated above in the teaching methodology. Students must participate in their learning in an active, participatory and enthusiastic way. All the activities of the subject must be done to obtain a good result, but it is essential that the students work with maturity and responsibility. In class they are expected to be participatory, to expose their doubts and their advances, to express their opinions freely, but always with criteria and a critical point of view. Students are also expected to fulfill their obligations: readings, activities, comments, etc. All this will result in the acquisition and understanding of the contents of the subject so that the proposed objectives can be achieved.

EVALUATION

The evaluation will consist of four sections that must be exceeded with an average grade of 50% each so that the average mark of the total of the subject can be made.

Type of evaluation	% sobre final
a) Individual written examination	50%
b) Continuous evaluation of the work carried out during the course: activities, attendance, active participation in class and in AV, attendance at cultural training activities.	20%
c) Control of mandatory readings	15%
d) Work and exhibition, with a multimedia presentation	15%

The students must be very clear that they can not limit themselves to take notes in class and have a passive attitude. This is not the objective of the subject and, therefore, the participatory attitude of the students, the performance of the imposed tasks, the reading of all the obligatory and recommended works, etc. will be taken into account. The sections described are mandatory for all students enrolled in the course. In the event that any student does not present any of these sections, the student will have the final grade of No Presented. In any case, all those compulsory activities carried out will keep the note for the second call in the absence of completing them. To pass the whole subject it is necessary to have passed each and every one of the parts indicated above with a minimum of 50% in each of them, in addition, it is essential to have attended a minimum of 80% of the classes accrediting the assistance in the different controls that can be carried out for this purpose.

Class attendance is necessary and mandatory. In case of not being able to attend the classes, each absence will be properly and obligatorily justified. Students who for very justified reasons can not attend classes are required to communicate this fact to the teacher at the beginning of the course or when the situation that prevents their presence in the classroom occurs. The teacher will agree with the student a work plan and follow-up so that they can continue with the subject being sure that all the activities and compulsory exercises of the subject are carried out and that their learning occurs successfully. It is necessary, therefore, to maintain a continuous contact with the teacher. The non-attendance at the classes, even duly justified, does not exempt the elaboration of each and every one of the works and activities carried out in the classes, because without their fulfillment the final grade can not be obtained. Therefore, all those students who can not attend class, having duly justified and communicated to the teacher, will in any case carry out the same activities and work described in the evaluation to obtain the final grade. These activities are maintained in the same way for the second call. Those students who do not contact the teacher, do not respond to the messages and do not participate in any way in the compulsory activities of the continuous assessment and the rest of the compulsory activities must, in any case, carry out the same activities and work as the rest of his classmates and deliver them for evaluation on the same scheduled dates, which will be duly informed by digital means and email so that all students are aware equally. When not attending the classes, they can not be part of any group for collective work, in which case the work must be done equally, though individually. The works that consist of essays or written works will be presented in a compulsory way through the section of Virtual Classroom Tasks, in spaces that will be enabled for that purpose. No other type of delivery will be accepted, except on paper if the teacher communicates it. Never deliver work by email, leaving the latter only for inquiries. Plagiarism is not allowed in any way. There will be a special monitoring of detection of plagiarism and each work in which is more than 20% will be null and will lead to the student or student, without the possibility of repeating the work in the same call. The plagiarism in the tasks of the continuous evaluation supposes a 0 in each exercise in which it is verified that it has taken place. In the Regulation of Evaluation and qualification of the Universitat de València, in article 15.2, it states: "In the case of plagiarism in a student evaluation work, it can be scored with the numerical grade of zero, with independence of the disciplinary procedure that may be initiated and, if applicable, of the sanction that is appropriate in accordance with current legislation. "

All students must read all proposed compulsory readings, without exception.
