SUMMARY

The subject French Language I (6 ECTS) is part of the subject Modern Language B s and is taken together with 5 other subjects. It is also part of the Minor Module, a complementary training in modern languages and their literatures, different from the one chosen as Modern Language. It is also part of the Degree in "Translation and interlinguistic mediation" (Language C). It has two fundamental objectives: to acquire a level of communication in French language and culture with an appreciable degree of autonomy and to demonstrate a solid knowledge of the functioning of the language.

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

The topics listed in the syllabus will be studied and practised on the basis of the recommended material. Students will work both collectively and independently. To do so, they must have at their disposal the material indicated by the teacher in charge and a grammar recommended in the basic bibliography. This material will also be necessary for French Language II. It forms part of the basic references of all the French language subjects of the Degree.

Theoretical classes:

As the aim is to train competent users on a communicative level but also in terms of knowledge of the functioning of the French language, the course will have a theoretical component, a practical component and a theoretical component.

theoretical, practical and theoretical-practical components. These components will be worked on in and out of class.

Practical classes:

Teachers will pay attention to each of the competences that come into play in the different tasks that students will carry out. Within the itinerary of the continuous formative assessment and in order to improve their self-learning skills, students will be able to ask for guidance from the teacher before carrying out and handing in each assignment.

Self-assessment

See spanish version

Other activities

Tasks will be carried out using new technologies. Attendance at conferences as well as visits to cultural centres advised by the teacher will be part of the course activities and their evaluation.

Observations

The classes and the various tasks to be carried out will be conducted in French.

The teacher, after studying the profile of the group, will indicate the material chosen for the course and the class.

Students will have to be very attentive to the information, resources and activities made available through the Virtual Classroom of the University of Valencia.

EVALUATION

1. General organization

The evaluation, both written and oral, includes all the communicative skills (comprehension, expression, interaction) and the grammatical proofreading that are indispensable in the study of philology. The evaluation of the subject French language 1 is in accordance with level B1.1 in all its oral and written parts.

THE EVALUATION WILL CONSIST OF TWO PARTS WHICH MUST BE PASSED INDIVIDUALLY IN ORDER TO PASS THE COURSE AS A WHOLE:

Activities carried out during the course: 20% (minimum)-50% (maximum).

Final exam: 50% (minimum)-80% (maximum).

2. Important points

1. Each teacher of French language 1 will set the assessment tests according to the group and the grade.
2. The evaluation of the continuous work carried out throughout the course, within the framework of classroom and non-classroom training activities, will account for at least 20% of the overall mark for the subject.
3. In order to pass the course as a whole, it is necessary to achieve at least 50% in all parts of the continuous assessment and final assessment exams.
4. Students who do not pass the tests must sit for the second call, but only for the part or parts they have failed in the first call. The formative presential activities are not retrievable in the second call.
5. The marks of the parts passed will be kept for the second sitting. It is impossible to retake a part of the assessments in both the first and second sittings.
6. Students who do not attend class or have problems attending must contact the teacher as soon as possible.
