SUMMARY

English Language III is a compulsory second year (first semester) subject that is part of the module English Language and Linguistics and the sub-module English Language in the English Studies degree programme of the Universitat de València (approved in 2010). It is also part of the Translation and Interlinguistic Mediation programme and of the English Studies minor in the Modern Languages and Literatures, Catalan Language and Literature, Hispanic Studies, and Classics degree programmes. In the English Studies degree, this subject is related to the series English Language I-VIII in the aforementioned module and also to other subjects in the English Linguistics sub-module such as English Phonology, History of the and Second Language Acquisition. Additionally, this module aims to provide students with an overview of essential aspects dealing with meaning and communication, meaning at different levels of language, as well as different kinds of meaning: denotative, connotative, social, affective and thematic. Then, literal and figurative meanings and meaning extensions are approached, focusing on phrasal verbs, metaphors, metonymies, as well as synonyms, hyponyms and meronyms, and examples of sense relations. A battery of activities combining a practical, inductive and deductive approaches will enable students to become familiar with semantic concepts and meaning phenomena related to the English language

The aim of the course is to develop communicative skills in English (reading comprehension and written expression) up to Level B2+ in multiple contexts. At the same time, the course aims to promote autonomous learning, self-assessment, and remedial work with the lecturer.

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

For students to reach the required level of English and develop other competences which are also specified in this syllabus the following methodological approaches will be implemented:

- the teacher will formally present key concepts and also counsel, facilitate, organize, monitor, liaise, correct and assess students.
- the teacher will promote student-centred activities through some or all of the following: individual work, pair work, group work, problem solving, project work, and task-based learning.

Autonomous and/or group learning inside and outside the classroom, including computer-based activities will be encouraged.

Your teacher will give you information on requisites relating to attendance at the beginning of the course.

EVALUATION

Assessment breakdown for first and second calls.

A) Individual final examination that includes a reading test, a use of English test, and a written expression test. 80%

B) Activities carried out during the course. 20%

Total 100%

To pass the subject students need to get at least 50% as an average of both part A and B. Students must also get 50% in each section of part A. The mark for the 20% of part B will be carried over to the second call. These activities (part B) can only be done during the course and cannot be handed in for the second call. The mark for these activities (part B) is only counted if the student passes part A.
