SUMMARY

This course is an overview of the origins of the literature of the United States as reflected in the work and lives of the most relevant authors of the early colonial period and its further development in the 18th and 19th centuries, with particular attention to the various religious, political and cultural phenomena that have produced the contemporary American character.

PREVIOUS KNOWLEDGE

Relationship to other subjects of the same degree

There are no specified enrollment restrictions with other subjects of the curriculum.

Other requirements

It is highly recommended that students have at least a sufficient knowledge of English to be able to read and understand the primary and secondary texts required for the subject.

OUTCOMES

1001 - Degree in Catalan Studies

- Students must have acquired knowledge and understanding in a specific field of study, on the basis of general secondary education and at a level that includes mainly knowledge drawn from advanced textbooks, but also some cutting-edge knowledge in their field of study.
- Students must be able to apply their knowledge to their work or vocation in a professional manner and have acquired the competences required for the preparation and defence of arguments and for problem solving in their field of study.
- Students must have the ability to gather and interpret relevant data (usually in their field of study) to make judgements that take relevant social, scientific or ethical issues into consideration.
- Students must be able to communicate information, ideas, problems and solutions to both expert and lay audiences.
- Students must have developed the learning skills needed to undertake further study with a high degree of autonomy.
- Be familiar with a literature in a language other than the main Degree language.
- Know the grammar and develop communicative competences in (a) foreign language(s).
- Interrelate different areas of humanistic studies.

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

Theory-based classes: This subject will be structured around lecture classes that aim to provide the necessary historical and cultural context for each movement or period under consideration, and commentary and group discussion of representative texts included in the reading list.

Practical classes: Group discussion of all representative texts of each unit.

CLASSROOM ETIQUETTE

Students are expected

1. to attend classes regularly
 2. TO HAVE READ THE ASSIGNED TEXTS for the day.
 3. to be respectful toward the opinions, ideas, and personal identity of all members of the class
 4. to take notes WHILE LISTENING TO THE LECTURER
1. to ask as many questions as they deem necessary to understand lessons

STUDENTS ARE NOT EXPECTED TO USE ANY ELECTRONIC DEVICE (LAPTOPS, I-PHONES, MP3-PLAYERS, CELL PHONES, ETC.)

The following actions will result in an immediate INVITATION TO LEAVE THE CLASS:

surfing the net or using email, Facebook, Twitter, etc. on a personal laptop

text-messaging

using cell phones

acting as if sleeping

staring at the lecturer without taking notes

chatting purposelessly in class.

Communications and email policy etiquette

We would like all students to observe some basic rules of politeness and formality in email messages in the three languages (Catalan, Spanish, English). These rules include:

Write when it is absolutely necessary and urgent

Do not expect a reply on vacations, Saturdays or Sundays

All messages must include a subject line

Identify yourself by name and class

All messages must include an address line (e.g., Dear Dr. -----, Dear Professor -----, etc.)

Never use "Hello!"

Use polite and appropriate language, as well as reasonably edited prose (i.e. complete sentences, correct spelling, never use the imperative, ask politely for information including the word 'please')

THINK YOU ARE WRITING FORMAL ENGLISH, NOT TEXT-MESSAGING TO A FRIEND. THAT MEANS NO TEXT-MESSAGING LANGUAGE AND ABBREVIATIONS

Always finish your message with formal language

Always sign your name

When lecturer responds, write back saying 'THANK YOU'

IF THESE RULES ARE NOT OBSERVED, THE LECTURER WILL NOT ANSWER YOUR MESSAGES

EVALUATION

Assessment in the FIRST and SECOND CALLS:

Type of assessment	% of final grade
a) Individual written examination	80%
b) Two essay questions related to specific texts and authors from the reading list included in the written examination, or optional essays or tasks	20%

To pass the subject students need to get at least 5 points out of 10.

Assessment Criteria

The written exam will consist of a number of questions and texts for identification (author and title) and critical commentary about these specific fragments, or multiple-choice questions.

These questions will evaluate both theoretical and practical aspects of the course in order

- 1) to assess the student's assimilation of knowledge and concepts imparted during lectures and
- 2) to assess her/his understanding of and critical response to texts studied in class as reflected in the ability to manage the appropriate methods and techniques of analysis

Plagiarism will not be tolerated; it is a serious academic offence. Any student who is found to have plagiarised his/her work will face serious consequences which could lead to failing the subject

The ability to communicate at the B2 (CEFR level) is required to pass the course as a whole. Students' whose written and/or oral communication display errors that are not consistent with the above level will fail the module regardless of their performance related to the course contents.
