TEACHING METHODOLOGY

To achieve the proposed objectives, the teaching-learning process of the subject Corporate Strategies will be based on a combination of teaching methods as inverse classroom, self-guided work from various materials, case studies, projects, and reports. These methodologies seek to develop the generic and specific competencies established above. In this way, students will analyze and synthesize information from different sources, work on written communication by presenting a written report and oral communication through spoken presentation of the work using different methods and expository supports. Also, the capacity for cooperative teamwork will be relevant for a good development of the project.

Theoretical classes:

Use will be made, fundamentally, of the participatory master class. The teacher, in each session, will provide an overview of the topic, and will expose and reinforce the key aspects and the most complex concepts. Each session will begin with an outline of the contents to be addressed, and will end with a brief summary highlighting the most important aspects and concepts.

In order to overcome the limitations of the master class, the method of self-guided learning is used so that students have a more active role in their learning process. This method assumes that students assume three responsibilities:

o For each session, students must individually do previous work, which will consist of answering a series of questions related to the topic to be addressed. This previous work done by the students will allow the teacher to start each session with a question to be solved, which will be discussed in class and will facilitate the participation of the students.

- o To facilitate the autonomy of students in the learning process, for each topic they will have a scheme-guide that will allow them to build their own study materials. Students must prepare the contents of the subject from the teacher's explanations and the recommended bibliography and the materials delivered for each topic.
- o Participate in the possible debates organized by the teacher in the Virtual Classroom Forum.

Practical classes: they have like objective the practical application of the concepts and techniques introduced in the theory, through the resolution of real or fictitious cases and exercises and of the realization of works in team. The resolution of cases and realization of exercises allow to introduce of natural way in the problematic relative to the knowledges and competitions that have to acquire in the asignatura, reflecting the complexity and the uncertainty of the business reality and the strategic decisions. In addition, hands-on sessions help to develop the ability to work in groups, interpersonal communication skills and the ability to organize and plan work. Depending on the circumstances, the practical classes may be face-to-face, non-face-to-face or any combined formula of both modalities. The practical classes may consist of:

Analysis and resolution of cases in class.

Analysis and resolution of cases outside the classroom and discussion of the same in class.

The modality of classes for students will depend on the social and health conditions and the restrictions established by the competent authorities.

In the case of online teaching, classes will be given by videoconference, preferably synchronous, using Blackboard Collaborate, Teams, Skype or the tool that the lecturer considers appropriate to optimize the student's teaching-learning process during the scheduled program sessions, which remain the same days and times.

In the case of blended teaching, the students will have to access the classroom in alternate weeks according to the initial of their last name (A-M or L-Z). The classes will be broadcast so that the students will have face-to-face teaching one week, and the next week they will follow the classes in streaming.

EVALUATION

- 40 % Continuous assessment, based on students' participation and implication in the teaching-learning process over the course. Such assessment will be made through the different activities developed over the course, including projects, reports, case study resolution, that will be presented and discussed by the students (individually and/or by teams). Group dynamics and inverse teaching will be employed over the course. This part of the assessment will be NO recoverable, being the attendance to the practical sessions compulsory.
- 60% written/oral exams, on the subject's contents. Including a final exam at the end of the term on the official exam date allocated within the official exam calendar of the Faculty of Economics. To pass the subject, students must pass the final exam in one of the 2 available official calls.
