SUMMARY

Derecho del Trabajo y Sindical (Employment and Labour Law) will provide the students with the specific knowledge required by the verification memoir of the Degree in Business Administration. According to this, the subject will help students to know the fundamental basis of labour legislation and will provide them with the knowledge necessary to solve problems applying labour rules.

Another aim of Derecho del Trabajo y Sindical is to make students aware of the existence of powers counterbalancing the employer's managerial prerogatives, both within and outside the enterprise. So that legal instruments of worker's representation and participation, collective bargaining and legal institutions for settling industrial disputes will fulfill the contents of this subject.

The subject will provide the students with the abilities needed for a proper development of the human resources management in the enterprises, within the legal framework. Nevertheless the aim is not to make the students experts in employment law but to make them achieve the basic knowledge allowing to understand the legal limits and context for applying personnel policies within the enterprises.

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

Given the non-legal profile of the degree in which the subject is taught, it is essential to properly combine various teaching methodologies.

Exhibition of theoretical contents through the master class. After a previous work of reading and preparation of each of the topics by the students, the teacher will show and explain in a dynamic way those fundamental elements that should guide students in the study and understanding of the subject, using frequently practical assumptions, so that students are able to approach the problems and legal solutions that may arise in the daily life of companies. This way, the students will be familiarized with the legal language, the handling of legal and judicial texts, and the way in which personnel problems are solved in the labour legislation.

With the aim of exposing the contents of the subject, the involvement of the student is essential, since he/she must make an autonomous effort prior to reading and preparing the different sessions.

Development of the knowledge acquired through the realization of practical classes. Although the theoretical classes will include a practical component, it will be in the practices where the students, in cooperative work, will fully apply their knowledge on the subject, providing answers to somewhat more complex assumptions and trying to achieve in each of the sessions the previously defined knowledge and application objectives.

Supervised autonomous work. The work of the students must be supervised by the teacher. In an idyllic context, an individualized follow-up of the students' learning process would be perfectly feasible and manageable, providing satisfaction to students and teachers. A context like the current one requires rationalizing efforts and activities.

The continuous evaluation of the student cannot be based on criteria of mere class attendance or delivery of tasks. The activities entrusted to the students must be supervised by the teacher, who must provide feedback to the student about their work, otherwise this will lead to a “bureaucratization” of the learning process. Given the increase in teaching dedication of teachers, which implies a considerable increase of students to attend; in view of the research requirements that are formulated for teachers; and with the perspective of a legal-labour context subjected to constant unexpected changes in regulations, which cause the need for constant updating of the teaching staff as well as their teaching materials, it is necessary to find a balance point between the supervision of the student activity and the other activities of the teaching staff.

In this context, the periodic collection of individual work from students is unfeasible, and group work does not solve the problem either.

Therefore, the option that seems most viable is that of autonomous work supervised through the virtual classroom forums. It is about launching questions, creating various forums, so that the students reflect and share their points of view – meditated on them and contributing ideas. The supervision of this activity by the teacher is fundamental, as collective supervision allows to rationalize the teacher’s teaching efforts without detriment to their effectiveness.

Directed activities: Both for the follow-up of the theoretical exposition and for the realization of the applied activities, the teacher will indicate the readings, case-law or cases, etc., the student will have to carry out.

Although it is not the object of work in the classroom, the teacher can also program, within the volume of work of the student, other activities that are useful to reinforce or review the knowledge acquired by the student.

Independent study. Obviously, the student must prepare autonomously and independently the course and the diverse sessions to it. The tutelage instruments of the students (tutorials, either face-to-face or through the virtual classroom) will be an indispensable complement for the achievement of the teaching objectives.

EVALUATION

1st Call:

- Final written and / or oral test, consisting of an exam, which may be in the form of objective questions or development type question, including theoretical-practical issues and / or problems. It constitutes 70% of the grade. In these tests, the following will be considered as general evaluation criteria:
 - Adequacy of the answer to what is asked: concretion and precision.
 - Writing and Spelling.
 - Terminology and technical precision.
 - Coherence and internal logic of the basis of the answers.
- The continuous evaluation of each students is based on regular attendance and active participation in the proposed face-to-face activities, such as the practical implementation or participation in workshops, the resolution of questionnaires, the preparation and / or delivery of papers, report and / or oral presentations on such activities, individually or collectively, all taking into consideration the degree of involvement and effort of students in the teaching-learning process and the skills and attitudes shown during the development of them. It constitutes 30% of the grade.

In any case, for this 30% of the grade to be taken into consideration, students must have passed the final test.

2nd Call:

It is considered that the activities of the continuous evaluation developed during the course have a recoverable nature. For these purposes, at the time of the final test of the 2nd call –either written or oral– or prior to its conclusion, the corresponding recovery activities will be proposed to the students.

English version is not available

1. Contenidos

Se mantienen los contenidos inicialmente recogidos en la guía docente.

2. Volumen de trabajo y planificación temporal de la docencia

Se mantienen las distintas actividades, con las horas de dedicación en créditos ECTS marcadas en la guía docente original.

En función de los criterios de la metodología docente, las sesiones programadas para su desarrollo podrán desarrollarse en las mismas fechas y horas con la misma duración o dejando libertad al estudiante para realizarlas de acuerdo con su programación. En todo caso, la puesta en común de las actividades aplicadas se desarrollará manteniendo horarios de las sesiones presenciales.

3. Metodología docente

En función de las características de la materia, las disponibilidades informáticas de los componentes de cada grupo y el efectivo funcionamiento de las herramientas informáticas, las lecciones magistrales podrán ser sustituidas por subida de materiales al AV, videoconferencias BBC, o transparencias locutadas.

Para las actividades aplicadas, que se subirán a través del AV, se garantizará la interacción entre profesores y estudiantes, mediante videoconferencias BBC o el uso de foros o chats del AV.

Aparte la atención personalizada a través de la herramienta AV o del correo electrónico, se establecerá un sistema de tutorías colectivo, a través de sesiones videopresenciales BBC o chats o foros del AV.

4. Evaluación

La propuesta de adaptación para la evaluación del estudiantado en esta asignatura es la siguiente:

Se elimina la necesidad de superar la evaluación continua o la prueba final para poder totalizar las calificaciones de ambas partes.

EVALUACIÓN CONTINUA -40%-:

- La evaluación continua se desarrollará a través de test de un seguimiento semanal.

EVALUACIÓN FINAL -60%-:

- Presentación de un trabajo sobre alguno de los temas que se hayan explicado a lo largo del curso
- Resolución de un caso práctico en el que el estudiantado deba contestar una serie de preguntas cortas sobre diferentes cuestiones planteadas a partir del caso

En ambos supuestos, la tarea se subirá en AV y el estudiantado dispondrá de un plazo –al menos de un mes- para la realización de la misma.

Finalizado el plazo el profesorado corregirá la tarea y la evaluará de acuerdo con el porcentaje de evaluación final.

Si una persona no dispone de los medios para establecer esta conexión y acceder al aula virtual, deberá contactar con el profesorado por correo electrónico en el momento de publicación de este anexo a la guía docente. El profesor/a responsable de la asignatura le propondrá una alternativa factible para la realización del examen final.

5. Bibliografía

Habida cuenta de que varias editoriales han suscrito con las Bibliotecas UV acuerdos temporales que posibilitan el acceso directo por los estudiantes a varios de los textos incluidos, entre ellos el que actúa como manual de referencia, no se introducen cambios en la Guía Docente.
