SUMMARY

The main purpose of this course is to introduce the way Western society works through political democracy and summarizes the essential knowledge on the action of the State and the Public Sector through their objectives, strategies and the instruments of public policy. The idea is to complete and go further into the knowledge gained in the course on Applied Economics and Gastronomic Business Management. In turn, it provides learning about how to act in the political context and how to manage the impact of public policies on the gastronomic activity, with special attention to the case of Spain and Valencia. This subject will be further studied later with the course on Local Development

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

The development of the course will be structured as follows:

Theoretical classes. The teacher will provide the student with an overview of the topic besides the information necessary to understand the contents of the subject. To follow the lectures students are advised to review the teaching materials that the teacher uploads to the virtual classroom.

There is a plan of continuous assessment activities oriented to the design of group projects related to the facts to analyze and to the decision-making process, encouraging the student to conduct the search for accessory or additional information, guiding them in the use of the necessary bibliographical sources.

At the same time, we will develop a program of Classroom practices, group work and visits to companies whose content may also be guided by the application of the theoretical contents to Design and project management, decided in a participatory manner by teachers and students depending on the different situations studied.

EVALUATION

For the evaluation of the theoretical part two complementary parts should be taken into account . Overall, they will represent 75% of the overall marks:

- 1) A test to evaluate the theoretical contents of the syllabus of the course. The marks achieved will represent 50% of the marks of the theoretical part of the course.
- 2) Continuous assessment in the classroom, through exercises or other activities that the teacher deems appropriate. The marks achieved will represent 50% of the qualification of the theoretical part of the course.

For the evaluation of the practical part:

The practices will represent 25% of the overall marks of the subject

The marks of the practical part of the subject will be taken into account in the second call when students do not pass the course in the first call.
