SUMMARY

This module deals with strategy making and execution. It addresses global business issues and deals with the question of what managers must do to make a company a winner in the global business environment. Using the case method and other approaches, the module discusses the managerial tasks involved in the processes of analysing, crafting, selecting, and executing strategies.

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

The learning experience will consist of:

In-class

Lectures, where theory, models and techniques are presented and explained

Seminars, where you will discuss theories, models and techniques

Analyses of case studies, real-life industries or companies

Typically, each session will comprise a lecture followed by a student-led discussion of a case study or research article – one or two groups or individuals will be expected to give a short (10-15 minute) presentation each week on questions related to that week's case - or a theory topic.

In some cases in the initial weeks you will be expected to form groups of four to six people, in which you will prepare the analyses of cases or research articles for classroom discussion.

Case studies, which describe companies and their contexts in some depth, are a vital element in the teaching of strategic management, to give you a feel for real-life situations. The case studies reflect the complexity of those situations, so they are longer than those you may be used to, and will require a lot of preparation. Please do not avoid doing this; if you do, you will not get the full benefit from the module and you will not be ready for the assessment when it arrives.

Self-managed learning

Relevant learning material is studied individually and in groups

Case studies and/or research articles discussed individually and in groups.

One-to-one or group tutorials

To discuss assignment preparation and research

To discuss student-specific questions

Peer presentations

Case study analyses and/or critical reviews of research articles are presented in class

EVALUATION

In-class test 20% that will examine your knowledge of the strategy concepts and tools that have been covered in class up until the date of the test. End of module exam 40%: open-book exam on a pre-seen case study of an international business. It is compulsory to pass the end of module exam in order to approve the module.

In class progress: 40% level of achievement in the assignments of readings as well as in the individual and team cases worked at class
