DESCRIPTION OF CONTENTS

1. Newspaper translation: Social and ideological analysis of strategies and techniques

This unit focuses on the incidence of editorial decisions based on social and ideological principles as regards the translation of newspaper articles or press reviews. For this aim, our proposal for analysis concentrates on the summary translation of articles and pieces of news from the international press, and the way it is adapted to the social and ideological - also linguistic and cultural - configuration in the target language. On the other hand, we also study the process of creation / translation of a pieces of news from press agencies to their publication or broadcast in the news of different media. The unit also proposes some critical reflection on the role and visibility of the translator in both processes.

2. The translation of TV advertisements

Both the end of the 20th century and the beginning of the 21st century have witnessed a great profusion of audiovisual texts as vehicles of transmission of information and culture. As television consumers, we are constantly exposed to commercials, a type of audiovisual product with several highly specific characteristics that differentiate it from other products. Those characteristics are related, fundamentally, to their intended function: advertising. In this unit, we will deal with the nature and translation of TV commercials.

3. The translation of graphic novels

The translation of graphic novels constitutes an activity that is as exciting as complex. There are various aspects that make it a complex activity that can be differentiated from other types of translation. Halfway between the written and the audiovisual translation, it is a hybrid translation practice the main issues of which will be discussed in this unit.

4. The translation of music clips

In this unit we will study ways to carry out the translation of music clips.
