SUMMARY

The contents of the module aim to offer the student a high level of specialisation in contemporary art, not based on the chronological study of the main manifestations, but establishing the most operative lines of interpretation in order to face an understanding of the cultural structures that comprise our contemporary visual culture.

The module entails two intentions: on one hand, the analysis of new theoretical perspectives, particularly the most representative ones, to understand new forms of visibility and our historical ways to relate to images and to perceive our experiential surroundings that those images determine. On the other hand, the module is aimed to encourage the students to sketch and develop their own research strategies, and to apply the analysis proposals to the concrete forms of the contemporary imaginary universe in the current cultural and artistic spaces.

Supplementary activities (weekly hour P: total 15 h.) won't have class attendance and will be preferentially online. Teaching planning will be specified at the beginning of the term.

If the sanitary situation changes and no access to the University facilities is possible, all teaching activities will be carried out completely online. In this case, the adaptations will be communicated to the students through the Virtual classroom.

DESCRIPTION OF CONTENTS

1. ART IN THE 19TH CENTURY: VALENCIAN PAINTING BETWEEN TRADITION AND MODERNITY

The subject will focus on the new historiographical trends for the light in the age of Enlightenment, the shadows of Romanticism and the momentum of modernity within the building of late modern culture and thinking in the 19th Century. From this point on, the issues addressed will focus on breaking the stereotyped view that, traditionally, considers the arrival of modernity and contemporaneity during vanguards and understands 19th Century a culturally anachronistic moment, not traditional, yet not modern either. Thus, the perspective intends to understand the visual culture in the 19th Century associated with the period of transformations proffered by Rosembaum. The study of cultural and artistic changes that chaired the Ancien Régime and the start of modernity, firstly through the Enlightenment thought and, later, with revolutions and the outbreaks of liberalism will set the starting point. In terms of temporality analysis, an emphasis should be made on the crucial idea of configuration and crisis of the modern subject during this period: the culture of modern subjectivity, the bourgeois subject. With respect to painting, particular attention will be paid to landscape painting, portrait, history painting, literary topics, artistic criticism and cultural magazines, Costumbrism in painting, Orientalism, Romanticism, social depiction and Realism, Modernism, Symbolist painting, the academies and exhibitions world, the artistic life at various centres, Spanish painters in Paris and Rome, travellers, tastes, imaginaries and collecting. Lastly, the novel approach of the New Art History will be applied under the visual culture and gender perspectives, which imply incorporating new methodological propositions.

3. TECHNOLOGY AND STRATEGIES OF REPRESENTATION IN FANTASY FILM

The fantastic as an aesthetic category or as an artistic genre is a rich, varied and complex cultural phenomenon. Mythology, the main source of the fantastic, stands as the main topic source in the history of art; and art, at the same time, has played a fundamental role in transmitting and maintaining the myth. The social impact of the fantastic as an applied aesthetic category on the world's population and the commercial relevance derived from the revenue generated from the sales of related products, justify the study of the principles, mechanisms and strategies that filmmakers, and audiovisual creators use to materialise such concept on their work.

4. ANALYSIS AND MANAGEMENT OF THE CURRENT ARTISTIC PRACTICE

Currently, two clearly distinguished profiles converge in the art scene: the professionalised sector and the emerging artists. Each one of them addresses to well differentiated realities, needs and distinctive features. Therefore, to understand them it is necessary to face their analysis and criticism as well as the role they play in the different social classes and institutions. Additionally, management, cultural and artistic policies, planning, curatorship, organising exhibitions, museology techniques, conservation, restoration, and art didactics are the essential elements for creation progress and artistic production. Analysis and Management of the Current Artistic Practices main objective is the study of all the components that are part of current artistic creation, with clear guidance to professional practice. In this respect, it is necessary to recognise the current situation of contemporary art, galleries, globalisation of art, and the use of new means of expression, as well as acquiring knowledge of museology and museography, copyright and preventive conservation.

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

The development of the subject is based on the following items:

a) Theory classes:

Practical and theory lessons given by the professor, through audiovisual media, in which essential aspects of the subject are showcased, being the bibliography systematised.

- b) Attending at exhibitions, guided tours or conferences led by specialised professors.
- c) Attending tutorials. Students may attend to tutorials according the schedule established by each professor, to make inquiries on any topic or aspect related to the subject.
- d) In order to encourage student's independent work and ongoing communication with the professors, postgraduate degrees at the University of Valencia are integrated in a distance learning platform, called "Virtual Classroom", that is a top resource for students training, complementary to theory and practical classes, seminars and the rest of supplementary activities. Through this platform, professors and students can maintain ongoing communication, plan academic activities and have material, documents and all sort of information available in relation to the corresponding courses, as well as professors are able to review and evaluate the students training tasks.

Theory and practice classes that may be complemented with different types of materials and activities in the Virtual classroom.

Tutorials will be done online (through the UV corporate mail) or face-to-face by prior appointment with the teacher.

If the sanitary situation changes and no access to the University facilities is possible, teaching and tutorials will be carried out completely online. In this case, the adaptations will be communicated to the students through the Virtual classroom.

EVALUATION

The skills to be acquired will be evaluated in blocks, each of them belonging to the four subjects of this module, based on 20% of the total of the module. Another fifth block belongs to a research work, valid for the whole module, directed and evaluated by one of the professors based on 20% of the total of the module. To be able to make this average note, it is necessary to take a minimum of four (4) in each of the sections.

Attendance to classes and active involvement will be essential as a basic tool of evaluation.

The platform Virtual Classroom is established as a mean for evaluation and communication of the results.

Depending on the nature of the subject, the following evaluation systems will be applied either separately or modified:

I. Individual or/and group work, as well as the possibility to present and read personal research projects (40%-50%).

In this part the following items are evaluated:

- Acquisition of a specific scientific methodology for History of Art and their adjustment to the specific issues of contemporary art through documentary, literary, visual and audiovisual sources.
- Mastery of the conceptual lines of the different subjects.
- Presentation of reasoned, coherent and organised discourses.
- Ability to produce interpretative hypothesis and undertake, in line with them, analysis and proposals for interpreting works of art.
- Ability for practical application of the formal requirements to write a scientific work.

II. Seminars, tests, reports or critical reviews of readings, audiovisual material and the recommended bibliography; as well as reports on the practical activities in direct contact to the contemporary artistic facts, and on their effect on the construction of our imaginary, on the exhibition activity and artistic promotion, on heritage and on manifestations developed on the base of the specific language of industrial societies (30%-40%). The evaluation criteria are as follows:

- Acquisition of theoretical and practical knowledge of means and dissemination forms of contemporary creation.
- Comprehension of general and specific bibliography of the subject.
- Ability to interact with current essayists and creators in order to establish a productive communication that maintains and increases the presence and influence of art historians in the current contexts of creation.
- Acquisition of an analytical and critical spirit from the bibliography and sources used in History of Art and Aesthetics.

III. Portfolio (20%-30%). Compilation of the students' work throughout the course that allows them to get involved in the learning process and the continuous assessment of:

- Knowledge applied to problem solving.
- Progress of skills throughout the course.
- Student's motivation and improvement capacity.

The general grading system will follow the regulations of the University of Valencia, approved by the Consell de Govern on 27 January, 2004, in compliance with the Royal Decrees 044/2003 and 1125/2003.
