SUMMARY

This subject examines the relationship between the constructs of climate and leadership and their implications for human resource management and the achievement of organizational results. For this purpose we will distinguish and integrate the concepts of organizational culture and climate, identifying differences and similarities. The different perspectives in the study of organizational climate are explained, emphasizing the development of strategies to diagnose the climate in organizations. It also describes the relationship between the concept of leadership and climate, according to the various existing approaches to the study of leadership. For this, we will identify different leadership styles and their relationship to the organizational environment, with particular reference to transformational, charismatic and ethical leadership.

OUTCOMES

2126 - M.D. in Human Resources Management

- Students should apply acquired knowledge to solve problems in unfamiliar contexts within their field of study, including multidisciplinary scenarios.
- Students should be able to integrate knowledge and address the complexity of making informed judgments based on incomplete or limited information, including reflections on the social and ethical responsibilities associated with the application of their knowledge and judgments.
- Students should communicate conclusions and underlying knowledge clearly and unambiguously to both specialized and non-specialized audiences.
- Students should demonstrate self-directed learning skills for continued academic growth.
- Students should be able to self-organise, which means systematically planning and setting realistic time schedules for the different tasks in their personal agenda, prioritising their activities, attending to criteria of urgency and importance, using explicit tools and procedures to control the level of performance and optimising time.
- Students should be able to initiate, lead, promote and facilitate interactions, as well as to manage groups of people.
- Students should have the ability to communicate, influence and be effective in interpersonal relationships.
- Students should be able to prepare reports and make oral presentations related to human resources management.
- Students should be prepared for lifelong learning and self-development. The individual develops the ability to incorporate new knowledge, skills and professional competences.
- Students should be able to establish mechanisms to guide and motivate workers.
- Students should be able to adapt to change and be creative. In this sense, they should develop the ability to modify predictable and habitual behaviour in order to adapt to the demands of different situations without substantially modifying the final objectives of the work processes (incorporating new data from the environment).

- Students should be able to design and conduct interviews to support human resources management functions.
- Students should be able to lead people and teams to achieve the objectives of human resources management. In this sense, they should develop a certain level of relational sensitivity and empathy.
- Students should understand and manage cultural and ethnic diversity in organisations.
- Students should develop a certain tolerance for uncertainty.
- Students should understand and be able to facilitate processes of organisational change, development and transformation, in interrelation with human resources management and with special emphasis on organisational climate and culture.
- Students should understand and be able to develop leadership processes in human resources management by promoting systems of participation in the organisation and developing an appropriate internal communication policy.

EVALUATION

The subject is evaluated through three assessment systems:

- SE1 Participation and involvement in the Master's activities (10% of the final grade). Due to its continuous evaluation nature this evaluation system is not recoverable in the second call.
- SE2 Evaluation of students' individual and / or group work (40% of the final grade) and the quality of oral presentation of work by the students (10% of the final grade).
- SE3 Exam (Final course project) (40% of final grade)

The qualification of the subject will abide to what is stipulated in the Reglament d'Avaluació i Qualificació de la Universitat de València per a títols de Grau i Màster (ACGUV 108/2017 of May 30, 2017). http://www.uv.es/graus/normatives/2017_108_reglament_avaluacio_qualificacio.pdf

According to this, it is specified on a numerical scale from 0 to 10, with the expression of a decimal, to which is added a qualitative rating as indicated below:

- 0 > FAIL < 5
- 5 > PASS (C) < 7
- 7 > GOOD (B) < 9
- 9 > EXCELLENT (A and A+) ≤ 10

The grade obtained in the first call will consider the following rules:

- FAIL:

If the total score of all the evaluation systems does not reach 5.0

- NOT PRESENTED:

If there are no scores for any evaluation section.

If there is no qualification in the evaluation system SE3

In the second call, the following rules will be followed:

- NOT PRESENTED:

If there are no grades for any evaluation section.

- FAIL:

When the sum of the different weighted sections does not reach a minimum of 5.0, the reached score will be recorded.

In order to challenge the allotted qualification the provisions of the Reglament d'Avaluació i Qualificació de la Universitat de València per a títols de Grau i Màster (ACGUV 108/2017 of May 30, 2017).
