TEACHING METHODOLOGY

Students make an individual work or Master's Final Project (MFP) and oral presentation and defense of it.

EVALUATION

Work will be evaluated by the Commission created for this purpose, with the participation of three professors of the Master. Content will be considered, originality, appropriateness of the standard memory usual in this type of works, with professional or researcher character, and the ability to synthesize and defense work by the student in the oral presentation.

ADDENDUM COVID-19

This addendum will only be activated if the health situation requires so and with the prior agreement of the Governing Council

1. Contents

The contents initially included in the teaching guide are maintained

2. Workload and time schedule

The activities and their hours of dedication in ECTS credits marked in the original course guide will be kept.

If the sanitary situation changes and no access to the University facilities is possible, all teaching activities will be carried out completely online. In this case, the adaptations will be communicated to the students through the Virtual classroom.

3. Teaching Methodology

Tutorials will be done online (through the UV corporate mail) or face-to-face by prior appointment with the teacher.

If the sanitary situation changes and no access to the University facilities is possible, tutorials will be carried out completely online. In this case, the adaptations will be communicated to the students through the Virtual classroom.

4. Evaluation

The evaluation criteria established in the Course Guide are kept.

If the University facilities are closed on the dates set in the official calendar for TFM, the face-to-face TFM defense will be replaced by an online act.
