SUMMARY

The Professional Report is prepared by the Erasmus Mundus student in WOP-P once he/she has finished the Professional Stage or Practicum. This report should represent the integration between the theoretical and research evidence studied in the different units/courses of the Master, together with the practice carried out at the professional stage/Practicum.

This strategy is congruent with the Scientific-Professional model. This document is really useful in order to find out what are the contents taught and learned during the Master courses that are used afterwards in professional stage/practicum. Teachers use these materials for didactic purposes only if the anonymity of the company/organization is assured and the student gives his or her consent.

DESCRIPTION OF CONTENTS

1. Professional Report

The professional report is the integration between the theoretical and research evidence studied in the different units/courses of the Master, together with the practice carried out at the professional stage/Practicum. This strategy is congruent with the Scientific-Professional model. This document shows what are the contents taught and learned during the Master courses that are used afterwards in professional stage/practicum.

Considering the diversity of experiences and contexts of the Practicum, it is neither possible nor suitable to fix the specific contents of the Professional Report. Nevertheless, general contents should be included as a reflection or deep thought on the contents of the Master, its relation with the professional activities developed on-site the companies, the integration of the targets of the area of RH with other organizational targets, the ethical aspects, etc.

WORKLOAD

ACTIVITY	Hours	% To be attended
Theory classes	40,00	100
Development of individual work	50,00	0
Readings supplementary material	10,00	0
TOTAL	100,00

TEACHING METHODOLOGY

- Lectures of papers related to epistemology and psychology
- Individual & group exercise under supervision (e.g., group discussions on the relationship between organizational practices and academic research, mainly in the domain of HRM)
- Reports

EVALUATION

The Professional Report should be presented individually. The evaluation of this professional report will be based mainly on the quality of the integration between the theoretical and research contents of the Master and the professional experience during the professional stage or practicum. Specifically a critical and reasoned argumentation is expected, instead of a simple description of organizational policies.

Given the characteristics of the subject and the emphasis on the development of competences, an examination is not considered, to consider that the acquisition of such competences cannot be evaluated correctly by means of the exam.
